Networking Events

Business to Business Meetings

This year, we are poised to be bigger and better!

The conference will begin with a full day of site tours on June 3rd, followed by a networking event at a local establishment. June 4th & 5th will be packed with carefully curated content and ample opportunity to connect with key stakeholders from Atlantic Canada's bioeconomy and beyond.

BIOCON 2025 attendees can expect to engage with a valuable cross section of regional, national and international industry professionals, academic and institutional researchers, government and non-profit funding organizations, students and potential talent. Bringing together all the necessary pieces to move projects forward!

Why Sponsor?

Bioeconomy Site Tours

Leverage the immersive conference component with guided tours that offer exclusive insights into successful local enterprises, showcasing diverse sectors from startups to larger companies. BIOCON aims to create a comprehensive understanding of Atlantic Canada's bioeconomy, promoting innovation and exploration beyond traditional conference sessions.

Networking and B2B Meetings

Foster networking and collaboration among attendees through tailored sessions. These structured platforms facilitate targeted discussions and potential partnerships among industry professionals, entrepreneurs, government officials, and academia, aligning meeting partners' business objectives and interests.

Engaging Speakers

BIOCON 2025 will bring together an impressive program of regional, national and international speakers from across the bioeconomy. Learn from subject matter experts on a range of topics, hear about real, groundbreaking projects, and identify potential supporters, partners and collaborators to move your project forward!

BIOCON Trade Show

A unique platform for the bioeconomy sector, showcasing cutting-edge innovations and fostering collaboration. Engage with industry experts, gaining insights and forging partnerships to drive growth and innovation, all while emphasizing sustainability and advancing the bioeconomy in Atlantic Canada and beyond.

Student Poster Competition

BIOCON provides regional post-secondary students in Atlantic Canada a platform to present bioeconomy research, gaining valuable experience and competing for four cash prizes based on presentation quality.
